

We have worked with Universal Maritime over the last 10 years. They have become without doubt, an intrinsic part of our operations helping us transport our yachts throughout the UK and Europe.

Over the years, our two companies have developed a strong partnership – and it's one based on trust, both in their capability and their integrity.

They understand the complexities of yacht movement, providing qualified crew, compliance with current legislation, aspects of health and safety, registration, insurance and the minute level of detail that's needed for moving yachts of such high value. We know at any time, we can simply pick up the phone to them, and the work will be done, to our own exacting standards.

We continue to be impressed by the service they provide, and would recommend them without question to others in our industry.
